

The Princess and the Peasant

Story by: Ashley Studioso

Chapter 1

Somewhere in a lovely village, there was a big castle, where there lived a beautiful princess named Ashley. She had long gorgeous black hair, beautiful tan skin, and crystal eyes that sparkled like diamonds. Her mother, Queen Aura, passed away and her father the King was ruler of the palace. Ashley was 17 years old and was supposed to get married to a prince from other places around the world. But Ashley never chose the right man because some princes wanted more than just herself. But someday, she'll meet the handsome man of her dreams and marry him.

Ashley was out in the meadow outside of the village laying down in a garden full of roses with no thorns in them. She sighed and looked at the beautiful clear blue sky. She wished she could meet the man of her dreams and hopefully fall in love. Ashley was very sensitive and gentle. She got her personality from her mother. Then one of the guards told her it was time to choose a husband. So she went back to the castle and looked at all the princes. She looked at them one by one until one of them said "If you marry me, you have to do me a favor." "And what's that?" Ashley asked. The prince looked slowly down at her breasts and tried to touch her but she firmly slapped him. All the rest were the same as usual and tried to touch her also. Then Ashley had an aura surrounding her so the men wouldn't get to her. This story is actually about heros called Mighty Girls or Boys, who have a tail of what animal they resemble with all kinds of strange markings on their foreheads, and sorcerers and sorceresses who came to their village and became part of them. There are also full humans in this story too. Ashley is half Mighty Girl half witch and has a tail of a white tiger. Her mother was a full mighty Girl and her father was a wizard.

She told them men to go away but they kept on trying to get her. Then the King forced them to leave at once. As they left, Ashley ran out of the royal room crying. She was in her room crying softly on her bed. Then the King came in to comfort her. "It's alright." he said, "Nobody's going to hurt my only pride and joy." "But Daddy," she said, "When will anybody love me for just who I am?" Then she cried in his strong chest. Then the King kissed her on the head. "Don't worry. You'll find your true love someday. I just know it." Then he left the room. It was night time. Ashley fell asleep with no covers on her until one of the servants got her inside the bed. She was in a deep sleep. And dreamed of her one and only true love for that someday, they'll always be together.

Chapter 2

The next day, she walked to a beautiful lake. She saw there and looked at the angel fish swimming gracefully. Then she sighed until someone was behind her. It was one of the princes from yesterday saying "Why don't you like me?" he said as he flexed his biceps. He was a very, brawny man with long blond hair. "Go away." she said. Then the man looked down at her smooth legs and said "You have sexy legs." "Will you just leave me alone!?" she yelled and smacked him. Then he grabbed her and took her away. Ashley screamed and told him to let go. He stopped walking and threw her to the ground. The man pulled off his shirt and Ashley said "What in the world are you doing?!" He wanted to do something awful to her until she ran away. She screamed "Help!" She ran as fast as she could. But the man got to her. He held her tightly on the arms and tried to kiss her until a voice said, "Leave her alone!"

Then the man looked. It was another man. He was more muscular than him and had six abs and a huge chest. He had a bald shaped head and three eyes, and was wearing a green vest with green pants. "You heard me," he said, "Let her go!" Then the man let go of Ashley and looked at him. "HA! You don't look so tough," he said. "You don't look so tough yourself," the three-eyed man said. Then the man went to go attack him until all of a sudden, the other man vanished and reappeared again behind him and punched him in the face. And then in the stomach. The man was unconscious. He slowly got up. "You're so tough," he said. Then the other one made a smirk. "Are you afraid of me now?" he asked. Then the man screamed like a girl and ran away.

Ashley was amazed by the three-eyed man saving her from any harm. He looked at her and smiled. She walked up to him. She looked at his body. His big shoulder muscles and biceps. His six-pack and his massive chest. She got a tingly feeling deep inside her. She loved strong heroic men. "What is your name?" she asked. "Tenshinhan," he said, "but you could call me Ten for short." She smiled and said "My name is Princess Ashley." Ten gasped with surprise. He didn't know what to say. "Forgive me, your highness," he said as he bowed down to her. Ashley giggled and said, "You don't have to do that." He blushed and then smiled. She smiled back. But then she stopped and looked down. "What's wrong?" he asked. Ashley sighed, "I don't know." Then she sat down. Ten sat down too. "Where do you live?" she asked. "In the forest," he said, "I don't have a home." "Aww, you poor thing," she said, "Why don't you come and live with me?" "No," he answered. "Why not?" Ashley said. "Because I'm not wanted anywhere at all," Ten said, "Nobody wants me. Not even one girl ever talked to me. Until you started to. You're the first woman whoever spoken to me." "Really?" she said as she smiled. "Yeah," he said. Then he sighed. He got up and said "I have to go." Ashley didn't want him to leave so she tagged him from his vest. "I don't want you to leave," Ashley said sadly. But Ten had to go train. She asked him, "Are you doing anything tonight?" "I don't know," Ten said. Then he walked away. Ashley ran to him as he looked at what she was doing. She tripped and was about to fall until she landed gently on his chest. Tenshinhan gasped and looked down at her. His heart started pounding rapidly out of his chest and made a deep sigh and held her. Two of his eyes were half shut. "I think I love you," he said. Then Ashley looked at him in surprise and her eyes glittered. Ten smiled and said, "Maybe you can see me tonight." "What time?" she asked. "Around 10:00pm when everyone's asleep," he said. She smiled. She felt his strong heart pounding in rage. Then she held him around his neck and kissed him on the lips. "Thank you for saving me," she said. "Oh, it was nothing," Ten said as he blushed from when she kissed him. "I'll see you then," Ashley said as she walked off. Then she blew him a kiss goodbye. He looked at her and sighed. Then she was gone.

Tenshinhan felt his heart and said in his mind, "What a woman. She's so beautiful. I hope I'll never find another girl like her who has such a sweet personality. She's so damn gorgeous." Then he smiled and walked to a lake and laid down feeling the cool water. He couldn't stop thinking about Ashley. He became very emotional and also had a tingly feeling for her. He breathed in and out deeply. He kept tossing and turning. His emotions were getting deeper and stronger by the minute every time he thought about Ashley. Then Ten looked up at the sky and sighed deeply. He fell asleep.

Meanwhile, back at the castle, Ashley was singing with joy and had picked roses for her father. "You're very happy I see," the King said, "I love to see my beautiful daughter in a really great mood. Did anything happen today when you were out in the forest?" "Yes," Ashley said, "One of the princes from yesterday tried to touch me again." "He what!?" the King yelled. "Wait, I'm not finished", she said, "I was saved from this most strong heroic handsome man named Tenshinhan. He was bald and he had three eyes." "Really?" he asked. "Yes, Daddy, I was saved. I thanked him dearly." Then she sighed. "And who is this man Tenshinhan?" the King said. Ashley was afraid what he might say because Ten had nowhere to live and was indeed, a peasant. "He's...a poor man, who doesn't have nowhere else to live because nobody wants him," she said in a sad broken hearted way. "I really feel sorry for him. And I was wondering if you could uh..." she stopped. Then she looked down because she knew he'd might say no. A tear came to her eye and asked, "What happens if I ever fell in love with a peasant? What would you do Daddy?" The King looked at her in shock. He said, "You love him?" Ashley nodded firmly. The King sighed with disbelief. "And when were you supposed to meet this peasant again?" he asked sternly. Ashley gasped with fear that he knew that she was going to meet him. Her stomach churned. She walked away to her room. But the King stopped her. She knelt down crying. "I'm sorry," she said. "Ashley, dear..." he said, "you don't need a peasant like him." "But you don't understand!" Ashley yelled, "You don't know how true love can really feel deep inside you. It doesn't matter if he's poor or not. I love him for who he is and that's why I truly care about him. Daddy, he has nobody. He's all alone. Nobody cares about him. And nobody had ever shown him love before." Her heart started pounding really fast for him. "Please, Daddy," she said, "I know Tenshinhan is my one and only true love and he would never try to hurt me. He saved me from a bad person who tried to have sex with me." "What!?" the King exclaimed. "It's true," she said as her voice broke up and bursted out crying.

Then the King comforted her and said, "It's alright. Nobody will try to hurt you anymore as long as I'm around my dear." He smiled and said "If you really truly love this man, then I'll let you marry him. This Tenshinhan of yours must be as strong as any other of my men." "He is," Ashley said in an emotional way. She felt her heart. Then she sat down. "I was suppose to meet him tonight," she said. "Then you may see him," the King said, "as long as you let me meet this gentleman of yours. Got that?" Ashley nodded and kissed him on the cheek.